

the Journal.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Senator Chambers. Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Mr. Chairman, now that the resolution is before us, can the vote be taken tomorrow?

SPEAKER NICHOL: We can take it today. Do you want to take it today?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Can it be taken tomorrow?

SPEAKER NICHOL: Well, I have a pretty full schedule.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: All right, we'll...

SPEAKER NICHOL: Yes, we can form it in...Senator Chambers, may...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: All right, I'll take it now. I move that LR 97 be adopted.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Senator DeCamp.

SENATOR DECAMP: Mr. President, you have voted now to decide whether you're going to adopt the resolution. Senator Chambers suggested the other day that you read the resolution. I now suggest strongly you read it also because of the significance and precedent it may set on a number of other matters in the future and sometimes it's these little things that trap us in the future. Let me show you the nexus, the relationship that justifies some conclusions. In the resolution paragraph 3 is the entire connection, Whereas, more than 30 members of the SS are buried at Bitburg. After that there is an entire recitation of the atrocities of World War II, and particularly the Nazis.

SPEAKER NICHOL: The call is raised. Excuse me.

SENATOR DECAMP: And those atrocities are well recited, well explained from concentration camps to everything else. And then in the resolution, you who are going to vote for this, you reach the following conclusion and you say this for the world, that because there are 30 Nazis buried among the 2,000, and, of course, by this time you've had to time to check how the 30 got buried there. It was a cemetery that