

resolution. What is Section 3? Are you talking about...paragraph 3, one, two, three, "Whereas, the Legislature finds that despite the fact that the state has no legal liability...". Is that what you're talking about?

SENATOR WESELY: On the third paragraph it would read, "Whereas, the Legislature finds that", then I'd strike it until you get down to one, two, three, four, five lines down and then it would begin again, "While the Legislature finds that there still remains strong feelings among a significant percentage of the population", blah, blah, blah. So in between we would strike all the stuff about legal liability and claim and all that and just leave that neutral.

SENATOR HIGGINS: We're talking about helping the people that had been hurt in the past...

SENATOR WESELY: Yeah, right.

SENATOR HIGGINS: ...not the future.

SENATOR WESELY: Right.

SENATOR HIGGINS: And your amendment is just striking that the state has no legal liability.

SENATOR WESELY: Yeah, just take all that stuff out of it. Just because we've already made statements on that and this is a study resolution. There is no reason to have all that in there.

SENATOR HIGGINS: Thank you, Senator, for yielding.

SENATOR WESELY: Sure.

PRESIDENT: Senator Barrett, do you want to speak on the amendment?

SENATOR BARRETT: Wesely amendment? No.

PRESIDENT: Yes, very well. I'll hold the name and I assume you want to speak on the other one. Senator DeCamp, do you want to speak on the Wesely amendment?

SENATOR DECAMP: Well, Mr. President, I have no objection to Senator Wesely's proposal. We've already settled that legal issue and if that bothers him, that's fine. All I care about,
