

me a Mercedes Benz. Well, Mercedes Benz didn't want Nebraska. And then we had the Lincoln delegation get involved in specifically prostrating themselves so that Pfizer would come to Lincoln. And what did Pfizer tell Lincoln and Nebraska? Lump it. I don't even like a state like Nebraska where they are so unstable, so unreliable that they will change all of their laws to cheese up to a corporation. That does not show the type of stability that a corporation is interested in. But not all is lost, brothers and sisters, you know how Micron, that giant corporation, that giant corporation, whose only significant competition comes from Korea and Japan and Texas Instruments, they rewarded you all, Senator Hudkins, they wanted to show Nebraska that they appreciate the way Nebraska humiliated itself, distorted its legislative process. You know what that giant corporation did? They gave the whole State of Nebraska one computer. Micron gave the State of Nebraska one computer to show its appreciation. A lobbyist will give each one of you more than that to buy your individual vote. But for all of the votes, all of the prostrating, all of the bending the knee to Micron, achieved in addition to be summarily rejected, as I told you they would be, one computer. It went to one school in Omaha, one computer. It would have been better for them to give you nothing. That is the way you show utter contempt and Micron did it. Over in the culture corner, we discuss things like this. We're not sure whether the Legislature should pass a law saying the computer itself will be passed around to every school in the state or whether the computer will be broken down into enough individual parts so that each school in the state will have some memento of Micron. Members of the Legislature, you will not do any damage if you repeal this law. But I will tell you what it will do. It will sweep the slate clean and if legislation of this kind is to be undertaken, it won't be done with a gun, so to speak, to the head of the Legislature. There will not be the twisting, the turning, the bending of arms, the calling in of political chits, as can be done when a large corporation is pretending it's interested in coming to Nebraska. Then the provisions that currently are a part of the law would no longer be there. Between the repeal of this bad legislation and another go-around with another corporation that wants to kick Nebraska a bit, maybe they did that because Nebraska is a football state and they felt that Nebraska's alter ego is that of a football and a football is for kicking and maybe they feel that Nebraska likes it. Nebraska surely can take it in the sense of absorbing punishment. This that I'm offering is only a repealer. I doubt that anybody, even those whose names appeared
