SENATOR HARTNETT: Yeah. You know I think the...you know, Senator Landis very elegantly.... There is the perception, and I don't know whether we can do away with the perception he was talking about. We cut the property tax one-third, see people in my district, they think we, this body have control over property tax. You know, will you cut our taxes. You know, I don't think we've changed the tax rate, you know, for...but that's the perception. And I think the perception, and I don't know how I'm going to vote on this, but the perception is that if you do it during the session what their...you know it's more directly trying to buy your vote rather than before. And I think also maybe all the lobbyists got to come if you have a fund raiser during the session because they don't want to...you know they may not like you, personally, you know, like your policy and so forth. But they just have to maybe to protect their interests. So, yeah, I don't know. I think Congress has tried to, you know, deal with this abuse. I don't know whether this is the right way or not. But thank you.

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Thank you, Senator. Senator Bromm.

SENATOR BROMM: Madam President, could I ask if there are any further lights on?

PRESIDENT ROBAK: There are two further lights, Senator.

SENATOR BROMM: Okay. I'll speak probably relatively briefly to a couple of things. If you take Senator Landis' argument to the end of the argument, then you should repeal the Political Accountability and Disclosure law because there's no point to try and do anything. I mean you just as well forget it, forget the requirements that you file disclosure forms and report monies and do what we've tried to do in this state to clean things up and keep things clean. If you take that argument to the end, that's where it leads you. I don't agree with that. I think we've got a relatively clean process in this state. I think that the body has not been abusive as far as I know. But I think the perception is that when you have a fund raiser at eight o'clock in the morning and you're voting on a significant piece of legislation at nine o'clock, that there's a tremendous amount of pressure on lobbyists to show up and give money and to call on their PACs to give money, and that just doesn't look
