tools necessary to help their industry reduce their liabilities. And in so doing, would be able to have their insurance to cover their activities more affordable. There have been many very unfortunate costly and life-ending accidents because of improperly installed and used propane devices. Having been a member of that industry myself, I can appreciate the many possible mistakes that individuals that are inadequately trained can cause and the very terrible things that can happen if inept technicians work in this industry. I think this bill is going to go a long way toward helping to make those kinds of things happen a minimum number of times. I don't think we can ever eliminate human error, human stupidity at times; but we can try to eliminate it as much as we can. I think this is a good thing for us to do and I'd ask for your help in adopting the committee amendments and advancing the bill. Thank you, Senator Will.

SENATOR WILL: Thank you, Senator Elmer. Senator Wehrbein, on the committee amendments.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Yes, Mr. Speaker, members of the body. I don't know who would answer the question, Senator Beutler or Senator Elmer, I guess. Ask Senator Beutler if he'd yield to a question, please.

SENATOR WILL: Senator Beutler, would you yield?

SENATOR BEUTLER: I'll sure try.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: When it says first seller, in general that's going to be the wholesaler?

SENATOR BEUTLER: In general I think that would be the wholesaler.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: Which ultimately, I assume, would be passed on to the user?

SENATOR BEUTLER: Well, Senator, that's a matter of general theory on things. Of course, to some extent, to what extent I suppose depends on the competitive situation and all.

SENATOR WEHRBEIN: I understand the need for the bill. I just
