it allows the extra time from September 1st to October 15th.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Now which schools are going to get this money, only those that have a program operational with students in them?

SENATOR BOHLKE: That's correct.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So if a school district does not have such a program, none of this money will it get.

SENATOR BOHLKE: That's correct.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, Senator Bohlke. Members of the Legislature and to my rural colleagues and the troglodytes from the city who voted with them, if the Governor vetoes this bill I'm going to do everything I can to uphold his veto. I'm offended at the last vote, not personally, but I've watched too much posturing from people who say that this high learning is so important, and I don't believe in it. But if you mean it, you ought to make it available to all those children. But you knuckle under to these little school districts and it's going to give me an attitude toward every bill that relates to these school districts. I said I'll leave this one alone. I ain't leaving the rest of them alone. I promise you that, Senator Don Pederson and Senator Ardyce Bohlke and the Wizard of Harrison. I think you voted no. If you didn't, pardon me. Senator Tyson's just following along. I remember something from Sir Thomas More and the King was talking to Thomas and Thomas asked him, if you got all the people with you why do you need me? And the king was saying that the nobles followed him because he was the tiger and they're the sharp-teethed jackals that run behind. And the people followed because they'll follow anything that moves, but he wanted somebody who had the respect of the people, not only a man who did right but who was perceived to do the right thing. I have watched so much this session that it's turned me off, because the ones who do the most pontificating are the ones who show that they don't really mean what they're saying. I don't even like the program, but if you're going to make it available give it to all. Now, Senator Bohlke has been frank with you all. The rich will get it. Jesus said, to him that hath will be given. He'll get more. From him that hath
