This bill adopts the Psychology Interjurisdictional Compact.

The compact would regulate the practice of telepsychology, temporary in-person face-to-face practice of psychology across state boundaries and authorize state regulatory authorities to recognize psychologists licensed in another state.

Travel costs for one meeting of the compact a year would be approximately $2,000. The Department of Health and Human Services estimates that issuance of temporary licenses would generate about $1,050 in annual revenue.

The Department's fiscal note also states there could be potential future costs if there was regulatory action taken against a compact licensee. No costs were projected for these potential future actions.
