LB 461 changes provisions related to regulation of motor carriers by the Public Service Commission (PSC).

Under LB 461, the PSC will no longer review companies for the purpose of issuing certificates of public convenience and necessity. The PSC will no longer review applicants as being fit, willing and able to properly perform the services proposed in their application.

Based on the bill's provisions, the PSC estimates that the number of hearings for front-end applications will be reduced, but customer complaints will increase. In order to address increased complaints and perform investigations, the PSC estimates the need for 2.0 FTE. Each FTE would need a dedicated vehicle to perform their investigative duties properly.

While it is likely that the PSC will need additional staffing and resources, it is unclear at this time the degree to which such staffing and resources will be required. That will be dependent upon the number and frequency of complaints and investigations. For this reason, the dollar figures in the table above are provided as a range.

Explanation of Estimate:

LB461 eliminates the Commission's review of companies at market entry for purposes of issuance of certificates of public convenience and necessity, and provides for a permit only process. The Commission would no longer do a review of applicants as to being fit, willing and able to properly perform the services proposed in their application. The bill also changes provisions related to regulation of rates charged by regulated motor carriers.

Eliminating the public convenience and necessity review and requirements will reduce the number of hearings that the Commission will perform during the front-end application process. However, with all applicants being issued a permit with no review of the company's fitness to perform, the Commission fully expects customer complaints to increase. This will increase the number of complaints to be investigated and the number of hearings required to be held in the complaint process. In order to handle the increased investigation of complaints, the Commission would need to hire two additional Inspectors/Investigators. The Commission anticipates these additional positions would be hired in January 2020 and that both would require a car to perform these duties.
