LB 80 is the Protection Orders Act.

The bill amends Nebraska's protection order laws by extending their duration to up to two years, enhancing enforcement mechanisms, and including household pets under protection. It streamlines procedures for filing, renewing, and enforcing protection orders while increasing penalties for violations and recognizing foreign protection orders.

AM801 does not significantly change the intent of LB80 but clarifies the bill, expanding judicial discretion, outlining procedural details, and addressing the handling of sensitive information. The amendment also introduces several new provisions.

Sections 31 through 33 amend the Child Protection and Family Safety Act by clarifying definitions, setting procedures for child abuse investigations, and requiring DHHS to notify military installations when a report involves a military family. This includes establishing memorandums of understanding to guide information sharing and maintain confidentiality.

Sections 48 through 50 enhance tenant protections for individuals experiencing domestic violence. Tenants may request the removal of a co-tenant perpetrator or have locks changed when abuse is documented. Landlords must act within a specific timeframe or the tenant may change the locks and provide access. Landlords may retain a key and charge reasonable costs for the lock change.

The Supreme Court estimates a one-time expense of $20,000 in Cash Funds for FY25-26 to update the JUSTICE case management system. Minimal General Funds will be necessary for judicial and court staff training, and while judicial workload may increase, the precise impact remains.
