credentials, so they had a large assembly that they were both going to address, and General Tucker said, "My fellow citizens, seventeen years ago tonight, I was, after a hard fought battle on that hillside, taken to a clump of trees on yonder hill and went to sleep and slept there all night. Now, all of those of you who remember the times that tried men's souls, you vote for General Tucker". So, John Allen got up and said, "What the General said about the hard fought battle seventeen years ago was true. What he said about sleeping under that clump of trees is true and it is also true that I was a private who stood guard over the General while he slept. So, those of you who were Generals and slept under the tree while the Private protected you, you vote for the General. Those of you who were Privates and protected the General while he slept, you vote for John Allen." Here's what I've got to say. If we had people in the Legislature
