Until that time comes along, then I would again respectfully urge you and I know that those of you who are voting against these bills and I have visited with many of you, are doing it not because you're not concerned about the problem, but because you're concerned about the process. The process by which we are attempting to solve the problem, and I would hope that you would take another look at it and, and, believe me when I say that I am not trying to downgrade any committee, it is not my intention, it is not my intent and it's not my purpose. The purpose is to combat the drug thing and I would hope that you would take it in that light and advance this bill and support the bill. We have discussed it far too much. It's a serious problem, but we should not have to thresh it over each time a bill comes up. We should pass the bills, they should go on, they should be passed on final reading and there shouldn't be that much
