motion to Senator Sarstens wherever he's gone, that both he and Senator Ryan as a committee of two, go to the Attorney General and frame the question or questions, what does he think we can do insofar as reaffirming this legislature, if he says we can't do it except for ten years, that ends it, as far as I'm concerned, if he says we can that shall start it, and I think this thing, if we can do it, and if 25 people in the legislature wants to do it, we ought to get at it and make it effective next year so it would be effective the next election. You can find all the reasons you want to not to do it, but we people come from other than metropolitan areas ought to find a way why we ought to do it, because if we don't do it sooner or later we are going to be undressed by the very people who are now complaining about what they did to us a couple of years ago, and it's entirely up to 25 votes, so I would like to amend his motion to have the two able constitutional lawyers
