

we have in the Omaha election, in the primary, 30% of the registered voters decided to turn out.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Do 30% of the population participate in this caucass?

SENATOR SNYDER: If they want to they sure can.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Now Senator Snyder, is there a chance for log rolling to occur in a caucass procedure?

SENATOR SNYDER: Is there a what?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: A chance for log rolling to occur in a caucass procedure? Naturally there is a chance for this, theres a chance for anything in politics.

SENATOR SNYDER: Theres a chance for anything. That is right, I was going to say--

SENATOR CHAMBERS: All right, now that I have made that question, made that answer easy for you, is it possible for deals to be struck in a caucass procedure, so that if a person is selected to the exclusion of everybody else, he or she will carry out certain promises that are made.

SENATOR SNYDER: Well I think you can answer your own question, Senator.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: But I'm asking them to you Senator Snyder. I want your opinion, not mine.

SENATOR SNYDER: Well I'll give you my opinion, it's the same thing that you just answered your own question with. All things are possible.

SENATOR CHAMBER: Now I'm not, I don't want a general, I want it specific with reference to this question. Senator Snyder, is it possible, is it even likely in some instances that an individual to be accepted by a caucass will make promises and representations in order to gain the caucasses acceptance.

SENATOR SNYDER: I can only speak for myself and I wouldn't.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: You wouldn't?

SENATOR SNYDER: I would not.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Do you think that in the caucass procedure getting away from you who have these high standards and principles in dealing with the run of the mill garden variety type politicians, if an individuals wants to be on a school board or run for an office, such as State Legislature, aren't there promises that are made to whoever is going to cast the votes, as to what that person will do and I'm sure you did make some promises when you ran for the legislature.

SENATOR SNYDER: Do more than when your going out to houses as I did and you tell people what your beliefs are and what your areas of concern are.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank-you Senator Snyder, that is as difficult as pulling teeth from the hen. I don't know if hens have teeth, I'll proceed now. Thank-you for answering the question. I feel that with all of the opposition that has been expressed by men like Senato Snyder and Senator Goodrich and others throughout the body, let me correct that, not throughout the body. I'll limit it to those too, and Senator Snyder, Syas, with reference to the evils of district elections where at least to allow primaries and a general election and anybody
