derived at. We know how much income we are--have. We don't know exactly how much our in--our expenses are going to be. There seems to be no way logically that we can set the income tax of this State at the middle of the year and yet still, Senator Ca--Warner this morning has done exactly that. I th--to show you the inconsistency which that man has operating within this State. Thank you.

PRESIDENT: Any further discussion now of the motion? Alright, Senator Cavanaugh, do you want to close on your motion then regarding LB 10? Senator Cavanaugh is closing.

SENATOR CAVANAUGH: Well, Mr. President, I hope the, the lack of discussion indicates a broad base of support. I wouldn't see any reason why it would indicate anything other than that. Everyone, I think, is going to be extremely eager to return to their constituency and take credit for the reduction that appears will be enacted here this year and I think we should be equally eager to return to our constituency --constituency and be able to, to say that we can take credit for whatever increases might be required in the years ahead. It's certainly the pla--the only way that this body can demonstrate its integrity and its courage to the people of the State of Nebraska and I'm expecting quite an overwhelming vote of support for this motion this morning.

PRESIDENT: Question is shall LB 10 be returned to select file for a specific amendment? That be the Cavanaugh amendment. All those in favor of returning the bill, vote aye. All those opposed--excuse me--Senator Warner, did you wish to be heard? Senator Stahmer, did you wish to--would the Clerk read the amendment, please, to LB 10? Are you sure you wanted it read?

CLERK: Amendment read.

PRESIDENT: Senator Stahmer--I'm going to intervene here in that, I, I'm sure you want it all read because there's 17 pages.

CLERK: It's on page

1845 of the Journal.

PRESIDENT: It's in 1845 of the Journal if you'd like to read it.

SENATOR STAHMER: I just wanted to have restated what the date is on the amendment that we would be--

PRESIDENT: --setting the--Senator Cavanaugh, do you want to answer the question?

SENATOR CAVANAUGH: Well, there, there is no special date--there is no special session included in this, in this amendment, Senator Stahmer. It, the amendment simply sets the rates on a permanent basis and they will exist and continue on the basis that they're set at 2½% and 13% indefinitely until this body would, would change them. There is no date, no special session required.
