since we had just a few minutes to yes or no. I was going to ask as a committee chairman what is our target date on committee hearings this session Senator Proud so that we can schedule our hearings accordingly.

PRESIDENT: Speaker Proud do you care to respond to Senator Syas' question here.

SENATOR PROUD: What did you say Senator.

SENATOR SYAS: What is our target date for the termination of committee hearings on bills, standing committees, this session so that to be helpful to a chairman, like myself, so that we can set our hearings accordingly.

SPEAKER: You are speaking as to when, just that your question is, when do we go into full day sessions, is that it?

SENATOR SYAS: Yes.

SPEAKER: I don't have any target date, but I will consult with the Chairman of the Committee on Committees and see if it might be helpful to have a target date, I would agree to that. But I certainly do not have one in mind now. But I will consult with Senator Whitney and we will see, and he can consult with some of the chairmen and get an idea as to their work loads and we will try and set a target date so you will have some better idea.

PRESIDENT: Senator Kelly for what purpose do you rise?

SENATOR KELLY: A personal privilege. Kearney State College is planning their World Affairs conference again for 1974 and this is an annual event out there. This year it is particularly timing and I would like to read the theme of the 11th Annual Conference is "Survival and Power" A look at the world energy supplies and how this will affect foreign policies both for the United States and other nations. This conference that the Kearney State College puts on is excellent. It is an opportunity for Nebraska to tell themselves and to tell the world and the nation that we are not isolationists although we are isolated. I do commend this conference to you and to your friends. Attend if you can, you will benefit greatly by being there.

PRESIDENT: Is there any further business to come before the body? There is a motion on the desk. Senator Carpenter.

SENATOR CARPENTER: Mr. President some of the members have indicated that they haven't had much chance to take care of their letters and other things that when they get down here at 9:00 and get home the day is pretty well gone. I am just wondering if we shouldn't adjourn until 10:00. Do we have much on the board that requires a lot of time?

PRESIDENT: We almost wipped out general file this morning. Everything else would be minimal. Were locked on Final Reading, it is the Chair's understanding, at least that we are locked on Final Reading until something from E & R engrossing moves on over, or until we get Fiscal Notes or other technicalities or answer there on bills on Final Reading.
