

February 5, 1974

PRESIDENT: Well, we haven't read it yet, Senator Carpenter.

SENATOR CARPENTER: Read the bill.

PRESIDENT: I don't think we have. Just a second please, stand by. The motion to indefinitely postpone. His motion to bracket or to hold it over would not yield to your motion to indefinitely postpone at this time.

SENATOR CARPENTER: Well, I'll indicate that when it is up. I'll move to kill it. There's no way in the world anybody can perfect this thing so it makes any sense to anybody. Both the proponents and the opponents.

PRESIDENT: All right, now Senator Stahmer what is your pleasure.

SENATOR STAHMER: I will re-state my motion then to bracket it for a week. Since we are going to have a kill motion thrown at it anyway. And maybe by that time we can understand what we're doing. And I have faith in the majority of the people here, they know what they are doing. If they are given a little time to think..

PRESIDENT: Senator Carpenter for what..

SENATOR CARPENTER: I oppose to delay the bill that long. It's dangerous to give people a chance to think. Or be brain-washed.

PRESIDENT: Just a minute, maybe the Chair can at least get a motion before us here. At this time Senator Stahmer your motion to unanimously to lay the bill over for a week has been opposed. So therefore, the motion can't be taken care of. You've..opposition now do you move to bracket..

SENATOR STAHMER: I move to bracket it for one week.

PRESIDENT: Now we have a motion to bracket the bill for one week. Now then do you want to debate that particular motion.

SENATOR STAHMER: Can I make a statement about my motion.

PRESIDENT: Yes, sir.

SENATOR STAHMER: All right. Senator Carpenter alluded to the fact that we're going to have a lot of brainwashing, and I think a lot of brainwashing has already taken place and maybe we can clean up a few little dirty brains. But I'd like to go briefly the history of this bill if I could at this time. First of all, we start out with a model bill, LB 293 that many states have already adopted, including the Realtors in these states. Before the bill was introduced there was a conference held with Realtors in Lincoln, including Mr. B Swanson, Peterson Brothers, etc. Some amendments were offered. They were accepted even before the bill was drafted. After the bill was introduced it was held in hearing, and it was held in hearing in Judiciary. There were some amendments suggested. And so the two sides got
