to find it's going to average twelve, fifteen years, something like that.

SPEAKER MARVEL: Senator Venditte, for what purpose do you rise?

SENATOR DeCAMP: This is my....am I interrupting something?

SPEAKER MARVEL: It's on I think.

SENATOR VENDITTE: Mr. Speaker and members of the Legislature, and Mr. Speaker, I think it would only be fair of the Chair to at least allow the rest of the members of the Legislature an understanding as to why we are proceeding with the motions that have been placed on the desk.

SPEAKER MARVEL: Well, Senator Venditte, let me put it this way without being harsh, and it will take me a second to regain my composure.

SENATOR VENDITTE: Mr. Speaker, did you not tell me that I....whoever was adversely affected should overrule the Chair, and I was late in doing that, Mr. Speaker, and I apologize.

SPEAKER MARVEL: Okay, now the only....now why are you criticizing the Chair? I guess I....you changed your position, I'm not sure....make your point.

SENATOR VENDITTE: No, I have not changed....

SPEAKER MARVEL: You stood and interrupted someone who was speaking. Now I asked you to make your point so will you please make your point?

SENATOR VENDITTE: I will do that, Mr. Speaker.

SPEAKER MARVEL: Okay.

SENATOR VENDITTE: The rules of the Legislature, as I understand them, and I would certainly be willing to read them, allow my motion to take precedence over Senator DeCamp's motion.

SPEAKER MARVEL: You mean your motion to adjourn sine die?

SENATOR VENDITTE: No. No.
