every rancher and, therefore, it is the wrong bill. If we want to talk about more stringent standards of meat inspection, then let's write a bill for that purpose. This is the wrong bill. It hurts this state. It hurts our agriculture. Therefore, let's kill it now.

SENATOR CLARK: Senator Keyes.

SENATOR KEYES: Yes, just since Senator Merz has made the statement that this is perfectly legal and carried on in Michigan, I would like him to tell me what it is going to do for Wilson Certified wieners and I would like to know what it is going to do for their Corn King which may contain foreign beef?

SENATOR MERZ: It isn't going to hurt them at all. They can go ahead and sell it only that they have to tell what they are selling.

SENATOR KEYES: Senator Merz, you are going to have written on the side of every skinless wiener how much (interruption).

SENATOR MERZ: If you will read the bill, all you do is take about five minutes to read the bill, all it says is you have to put a sign in their place of business.

SENATOR KEYES: In whose place of business, Wilson's? Or are you going to put one the store down in Ogallala and one in every store in the nation?

SENATOR CLARK: Now we will have a domestic meat expert, Senator Simon.

SENATOR SIMON: Mr. President, I was trying to use the Schmit criteria for determining the worthiness of a bill. I may not get this exactly right, but does the bill do anything good? No. Does it cost anything? Very little. Then there is the Simon criteria and your's may have had this or not. Does it do anything bad? I think it does. I am surprised, Senator Schmit, because I don't think you used your own criteria on the bill. As near as I can tell, the bill does nothing good. It very definitely does some things bad which Senator George pointed out in terms of possible reciprocity but certainly at the very least it is questionable and probably will definitely hurt businesses, not ours, but would definitely hurt some businesses that are dealing with the retail public. It seems to me that at best this bill has not been thought out properly with all deference to Senator Schmit. I think it could either
