LB 905

all have them cleaned up. Well Senator Lewis has not served on the Revenue Committee and I would like to see him do that at some time because Senator Lewis is not known for his ability to say no and neither is Senator DeCamp. He is not only not known for his ability to say no, but I don't think that Johnny has that in his vocabulary and that is exactly the issue in this here proposal and this exemption. Someone came, threw their arm around Johnny...

PRESIDENT: Twenty seconds, Senator Newell.

SENATOR NEWELL: ...and said, hey, and Johnny said, well, seems fair to me and that is where we are at today and it is the wrong place to be folks, it is the wrong place to be.

PRESIDENT: Right on time. We will take an Irish moment off, about three minutes at ease for the official cake cutting ceremony over here so that it can be recorded for posterity. We will have a three minute at ease and then we will resume with the debate on LB 905, the motion to indefinitely postpone.

EASE

PRESIDENT: The Legislature will resume with the...the next speaker is, on this St. Patrick's Day is Senator Murphy, and no more jokes, please. I know that is hard on St. Patrick's Day.

SENATOR MURPHY: I would just very briefly point out one thing.

PRESIDENT: Senator Kelly has a point of order, just a minute.

SENATOR KELLY: Mr. Speaker, you can't do that to Senator Murphy. You take away his jokes and you gag him and you know you can't gag a person in this Legislature.

PRESIDENT: I apologize to him for doing that, particularly on St. Patrick's Day. You can tell any joke you...no, not any joke, but you can tell the jokes you feel are proper to tell. Go ahead.

SENATOR MURPHY: Oh, tell that Kelly to sit down and shut up or the Irish will be at it again. I, in seriousness, would point out briefly one thing. These IRA accounts that we speak of, many of those policies are not a straight
