probably the reason that people voted to delete that money the other day because I told them UFO meant University Foundation Obituary, but I have to tell them it didn't mean that at all. But I see here that it would discover.... it would study some friends and acquaintances of mine, demons, ghosts, monsters, and where I see that you lost your money purse is in this press release that says, this program is designed for the encouragement of open-mindedness and development of logical thinking. Now you know an argument like that can never prevail here, but I admire your courage in bringing forth, as Senator DeCamp said, up front the goal that you have in mind. Members of the Legislature, I am very serious now in what I am about to say. There are many things which because they are not understood will be mischaracterized. A label will often be attached to the wrong item. Then whenever you hear that label, you consider the item which it was improperly attached to. Now UFOs, the study of the paranormal, all these things can be considered trivia. They can be considered a waste of time. But nobody laughed at the Omaha Police when they went to the fortune teller to try to help them find a little baby that was kidnapped from the hospital. Mediums and psychics are used all over the country in trying to help locate either victims of crimes, criminals or missing evidence. Hypnotism is used by police agencies and they are trying to get some of the findings accepted in courts. There was a young fellow who in California not too long ago was taken from his family and raised as an individual's son. There was another youngster involved. One of them was hypnotized, gave a description which if the newspapers are correct, assisted in locating the individual who had been involved in this activity which we all considered to be illegal. So I think before we laugh away an item, we should consider that those who get support from the Legislature in other areas of the budget make use of these very things themselves. So, perhaps, a proper study to separate the wheat from the chaff, the good from the bad, might be in order. I don't think that the expenditure is too large an amount. In Russia they take these matters very seriously and I don't think anybody considers the Soviet Union to be idealistic, to be engaged in witchcraft, unless it works, or the quest for fairies. So maybe it is necessary on occasion, if we don't know enough about a subject from our own specific knowledge, to look at those in whom we place some confidence and see what their attitude toward that subject is. And the Soviet Union, and a number of universities throughout this country do not laugh at the kind of thing that a first step is being taken toward with Senator Kelly's offering of this amendment. Senator Kelly, I support
