

with his ill-gotten goods but somebody watched very carefully what was being done and those who thought they were building a very secure house built within the foundation the very seeds of destruction for that house. So what I would advise all of you to do today who support this bill, especially you, Senator Schmit, analyze the edifice that you have constructed here today. I haven't talked on the bill. I don't think it has been necessary because when you have a combination of people whose job it is to enact laws and they are not functioning on the basis of their understanding of those procedures but rather being whipped and driven to do things by people outside who don't understand the procedure, they got what they paid for. They got what they wanted. They did a good job out there. It is the ones in here who should do some soul searching if there is such a thing as a soul. I use the term advisedly, but if the bill fails, if the bill fails because of the work done by those who say they are doing the work for those people out there, then those people out there know who to turn to and perhaps they engaged in overkill. Greed will sometimes lead people to go a bit further than they need to go and they rest and grasp more than they legitimately can do. Now I have made a calculation on this bill and despite what I said earlier, Senator Labedz, when DeCamp said God was his witness and I said, no, I'm not, I didn't really mean that because I am not that humble. Well, depending on how you define it, but here is what I will say. There is a possibility that I could be mistaken in my judgment of the situation that I think that I see but I am going to explore it and I think it is wonderful that the bill has been advanced because time may be on the side of those in the lobby or the fact that the bill moved today may put the time on my side. We'll just have to see. I am giving you something to think about over this long weekend. I would you tell you a fable but we don't have time for that but remember there were two doors that an individual had a chance to select one of and the final question was...

SENATOR CLARK: You have one minute, Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...will it be the lady or will it be the tiger? Now maybe the individual selecting the door wanted the tiger. We don't know that for sure but that is the way I put it before Senator Schmit and those who want 882. What did you get here today? Did you get the lady or did you get the tiger and if you get a tiger, you can't hold on but you'd better not let go.

SENATOR CLARK: Senator Schmit.
