LB 705, 718

on the awards made by condemnation and the amendment that I have does three things. First of all, it includes the emergency clause. Secondly, it says that the condemnee must agree to the stipulation offered by the condemner. Otherwise there would be an unequal burden and that all the condemner would have to do would be to offer such a stipulation and the condemnee would have no recourse. Then, in addition to that, the amendment makes the act applicable to an appeal whether it is taken by a condemnee or a condemner so it is equal both ways.
