

SPEAKER NICHOL: UN-L too?

SENATOR HARRIS: Yes.

SPEAKER NICHOL: How about four state colleges?

SENATOR HARRIS: It does not include the four state colleges. It just includes the University system.

SPEAKER NICHOL: How does the University system retirement plan compare with the four state colleges during the period that you are talking about here?

SENATOR HARRIS: You got me. I'm not certain. Maybe that is something else that we should put in here, but I don't know what it is right offhand.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Okay. Did you consider the technical community colleges, too?

SENATOR HARRIS: No, we did not.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Why not?

SENATOR HARRIS: Why didn't we do that, I am not certain why we didn't do that. They may not have the problem in their system that we have with the Lincoln system or the University system. Perhaps you can answer that question for me. I don't know.

SPEAKER NICHOL: No, I don't know. I haven't found it. I thought perhaps you knew. I wasn't trying to embarrass you.

SENATOR HARRIS: Senator Warner might have the answer to that question.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Well it would probably take a little time to find it. But...

SENATOR HARRIS: He said they weren't in existence at that period.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Well, now wait a minute, they were too. I know some of them that were. They were called junior colleges in those days, and they were in existence. They had teachers at that time, so that is not an excuse. But
