

broad picture. But I do appreciate Senator DeCamp bringing this idea to us. We are drafting another new whereas that would indicate that the future debate, as we look at this entire problem, should be broadly focused. I agree with the concept that we ought to look at a lot of different options, a lot of different ideas. But I strongly disagree that we are at the present time looking at a lot of different ideas, that we're looking at a broad concept. So I oppose the DeCamp amendment based on the fact that at the...what this whereas is talking about is what is happening now. The new whereas, that I will be offering, will be talking about broadening that debate in the future. That is what we ought to be doing. I think that is something that Senator DeCamp, I think, indicated that it is broad, but I disagree with the fact that it is broad right now, so I oppose the DeCamp amendment. Thank you, Mr. President.

SENATOR DECAMP: Yes, Mr. President. I'm not sure what we are accomplishing with the resolution with or without any amendments. I'm not sure but what it isn't just more pabulum, to quote Senator Vard Johnson. However, I think the proof of the pudding is in Senator Vickers' statements. He said the present debate is narrowly focused. His is narrowly focused. He wants one solution, one thing, and that is maintenance of a variety of support programs and government involvement. The other focus from other sides is to move to a market oriented system, as broad a focus as you can get and that is the present issue. So if it is narrowly focused it certainly isn't the other people's fault, it is
