

does the frequency refer to the time frame?

PRESIDENT: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: What does "frequent" refer to? Nobody in here knows. Any of us could argue against any definition that is given and any law based on language that loose and vague is unconstitutional. I hope Senator Morehead accepts this amendment. I hope Senator Hefner can persuade the rest of you to adopt it. My good judgement requires me to oppose it, but you know how careful I am, Senator Hefner, and sometimes I go overboard perhaps in that regard and I may be doing it on this amendment. So I hope you listen to your leaders today on this amendment and explain to the judge or anybody else what it means to make frequent delivery stops.

PRESIDENT: Your time has expired. Senator Hefner...I mean, Haberman, excuse me.

SENATOR HABERMAN: Mr. President, a question of Senator Hefner, please.

SENATOR HEFNER: Certainly.

SENATOR HABERMAN: Senator Hefner, does your amendment include school buses?

SENATOR HEFNER: No, it doesn't.

SENATOR HABERMAN: Why not?

SENATOR HEFNER: Because school buses isn't in the bill.

SENATOR HABERMAN: Oh, thank you. School buses are in the bill, because it says the driver of the vehicle must wear his seat belt. So I hope that you adopt this amendment because you know what is going to happen? We are going to have a bus accident and the driver is not going to be strapped in and due to he not being strapped in, he is going to be knocked unconscious and therefore he cannot help those little children on that school bus get off of that school bus and help save their lives. No, he can't do it because he doesn't have to wear his seat belt under this amendment, and then are we going to have a lawsuit. (Whistle). You talk about people being upset, as sure as the tide ebbs and flows twice in twenty-four hours, you will really hear from
