

because I looked at the clock before I started this time. I started at ten-fifteen. I was telling you how I admire what those lobbyists for Ak-Sar-Ben can do. When you see people giving full measure for the dollars they are paid, it is a rare thing that you are seeing. But I mean they worked out there almost as hard as those people from the University were scurrying and scrambling around here yesterday. But the University needs to learn something from Ak-Sar-Ben's lobbyists so that they can figure how to get their will worked as cleanly and quickly as Ak-Sar-Ben can in this Legislature. It is something that Ak-Sar-Ben is Nebraska spelled backwards because when they come in here, the Nebraska Legislature functions in a backward fashion doing that which it ought not do and failing to do that which it should do, so this ought to be the Ak-Sar-Ben Legislature with a small "a" at the beginning of the word. I wonder what we are going to talk about when we get to 722 and come upon some of those issues. I wonder if Senator DeCamp...now John can do this, John can still push for cutting the appropriations because John's consistency is in his inconsistency. He is mercurial. He changes and everybody accepts that from Senator John Guliliver. But, John, the rest of them have not created that wiggle room for themselves such as you have openly and unabashedly done. Others run around here and play like they are different. They play like certain things mean something to them and they are going to stick by those things, but it is just playacting. And when we get to 722 we are going to see it. I am going to get a copy of the vote on this bill and I am going to compare the names of those who vote for Ak-Sar-Ben and then check that...

SENATOR BARRETT: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...against the other votes that they make on 722, and then say like the lawyers do, when people take contradicting positions, in which instance were you not telling the truth? But who cares about that right now. Nobody will care about it until a later day; that day might be when they are before some students. Maybe, Senator Hefner, it will be when they are before their maker, but we know they don't believe anything like that. But it does make nice conversation. I see.

SENATOR BARRETT: Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Wesely on the motion to return.
