

bushel of corn than they get for selling it?

SENATOR HABERMAN: Unfortunately, in selling they do.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: I begin to kind of understand why that happens now. Members of the Legislature, I just don't think this is a good idea at all. I believe agencies like museums or institutions or whatever you want to call them very rarely have standing room only crowds. You don't go there and find people in the way so you can't move around, so the problem is to find ways to get people to go to it. So maybe we ought to give away lottery tickets to get people to go to the museum because the learning experience that it could be is worth more to the society at large in terms of elevating people's awareness of things we think they should know about. So I am opposed to this offering. But, Senator Haberman, I want to ask you another question preparatory to an amendment I have coming up later. Have you ever gone to a Nebraska football game?

SENATOR HABERMAN: Yes, I have.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: What is the most you have paid to go to a Nebraska football game?

SENATOR HABERMAN: Whatever the tickets charge, that is what I pay.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Oh, is it about $10.00 or more? I have never gone to one so I don't know what the cost is.

SENATOR HABERMAN: Can I have your tickets.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: I don't take them. I don't accept them. No free rides.

SENATOR HABERMAN: Okay.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: But it...okay, you would pay $15.00 to go to a Nebraska football game?

SENATOR HABERMAN: I'd pay for the tickets, yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Okay, would you pay $15.00 to go into the museum?
