

got that obligation and if she has some means, she should be interested in helping this man of her dreams assume and discharge his obligations. So why should you let her out from under it even though she had nothing to do with him bringing those other children into the world? She has chosen to cast her lot with him. So Senator Johnson, using that liberalism that these fellows get out at Yale and Harvard and these institutions on the East Coast, these dangerous institutions, is trying to get the State of Nebraska to put something into the law or take something out of the law that ought to be there.

PRESIDENT: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Beware, they said, of Greeks bearing gifts, that was, I think, based on the Trojan horse, beware of a "Yaleite" bringing an amendment. You should analyze it very, very carefully and ask yourself, is what he is suggesting what good old died in the wool hat Nebraska hardheaded conservatives want? Or is it one of those wild-eyed liberal schemes that are always coming out of the east? I advise you to proceed with caution. Since I have made the comments about those whose job it is to enforce the law being unwilling to enforce it which was a point I wanted to make earlier and neglected to make, I have now done with it. And to be honest, I don't care whether you accept Senator Johnson's amendment or not because it makes no difference. This is much ado about nothing, a tempest in a teapot.

PRESIDENT: The issue before the house is the Johnson amendment. Senator Labedz. May we have order, please. (Gavel.) Senator.

SENATOR LABEDZ: Thank you, Mr. President, and members of the Legislature, I currently am working on a case and I stand in opposition of Senator Johnson's amendment. A lady called me last week. There was a divorce in the family. Both members of that marriage remarried. As Senator Carson Rogers mentioned the fact that this...the husband purposely quit his job because the wife, the mother of the child filed child support proceedings against him, and there was no money coming in to her and her child so her present husband had to support that child for many, many months and at the same time the father and his new wife built a new home, had a couple cars and a camper. Of course, he was unemployed,
