

SENATOR GOLL: I see. I believe in previous conversation with you, Senator Scofield, you also told me that it had an upstairs. Is that right?

SENATOR SCOFIELD: Yes, it does.

SENATOR GOLL: What was...was the upstairs occupied?

SENATOR SCOFIELD: Yes, at one time it was.

SENATOR GOLL: I see. What went on upstairs?

SENATOR SCOFIELD: Well, I'm told there were apartments upstairs.

SENATOR GOLL: Apartments.

SENATOR SCOFIELD: Yes.

SENATOR GOLL: I see.

SENATOR SCOFIELD: I have not been upstairs in this building by the way.

SENATOR GOLL: But, Senator Scofield, is this upstairs still occupied?

SENATOR SCOFIELD: No, it is not.

SENATOR GOLL: Just apartments.

SENATOR SCOFIELD: Yes.

SENATOR GOLL: And O'Doherty was the keeper of the apartments?

SENATOR SCOFIELD: No. The name O'Doherty actually is a recent name. There were a number of prominent business people in Crawford that originally started this business. When the business was bought in 1976, the family that established the restaurant was actually named Spence.

SENATOR GOLL: Spence.

SENATOR SCOFIELD: I'm told that the name O'Doherty's
