

SENATOR HANNIBAL: Senator Warner.

SENATOR WARNER: I was wondering if Senator Beutler would yield to a question.

SENATOR HANNIBAL: Senator Beutler, would you yield.

SENATOR WARNER: Senator Beutler, I'm always very accommodating to provide understanding. What was not understood on the issue?

SENATOR BEUTLER: Senator Warner, pardon me?

SENATOR WARNER: You indicated we should vote again because there a couple of people that didn't understand the issue. I was wondering what the misunderstanding was about?

SENATOR BEUTLER: Well, I'm not a mind reader, Senator Warner. I don't know everything that wasn't understood by...

SENATOR WARNER: Oh, they just told you...

SENATOR BEUTLER: ...but they have indicated that they were not satisfied with their votes, they didn't think their votes reflected their feelings on it.

SENATOR WARNER: Oh, I thought you said they didn't understand. Fine. Well, I would rise to oppose...I thought you made a legitimate statement. I was asking legitimately what the misunderstanding was because I would like to help clarify it however they were going to vote, Senator Beutler. But I would again urge you not to reconsider the motion. You made the right decision, you ought to stay with it. Nothing has changed since we voted a few minutes ago. I would repeat the argument that you cannot apply averages to specifics, it just doesn't happen that way. More importantly out of the actually 8.5 million or so that they have in administration we all know as a matter of fact that they have a great deal of flexibility that if they choose to do more in field representatives, which I understand is really where they would make the move, they have the option, for example, not using auditors as much and use more for field representatives which I hear the Tax Commissioner acknowledges that those people maybe are more effective than
