understand. You may have known, but what is the question that you're asking me?

SENATOR ROBAK: I'm asking you right now what did...you were making a lot of references to pro-choice or pro...women that can't make choices being inferior.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: When?

SENATOR ROBAK: Do men think they're inferior? Is that it? You said this about three times. So what was the exact sentence that you said?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Oh, here's, Senator Robak, let me try to make clear briefly what I'm saying.

SENATOR ROBAK: Fine.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: The way this bill is drafted, the underlying assumption is that women are intellectually and emotionally incapable of making decisions relative to the most intimate aspects of their life...

SENATOR ROBAK: Ah, that was good, Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ..and...

SENATOR ROBAK: This is my time, Senator Chambers. My time.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ..but let me...

SENATOR ROBAK: Good answer.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ..answer the question.

SENATOR ROBAK: That was a beautiful answer, Senator Chambers, and I think the men in this body think that about all the women on every issue. (Laugh.)

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Do you want me to finish answering the question?

SENATOR ROBAK: You...you just...you answered it. You can sit down now.
