

the need to feel compelled to use an abortion. That's a demonstrable step we can do in reducing abortions and a commission can do that kind of study and design of solutions. Something can be done, we ought to do it, we ought to pass this amendment.

SPEAKER BAACK: Time. Senator Bohlke.

SENATOR BOHLKE: Mr. Speaker, I was looking, oh, there's Senator Robak. Senator Robak, it has been a long, long time since I've had a bedtime story read to me. And I have so enjoyed it, and I certainly haven't had a chance to read this book that I yield the rest of my time, to hear a little more, to you.

SPEAKER BAACK: Senator Robak.

SENATOR ROBAK: I'm trying to think of something. Who's got... Senator Labedz, your light is on. I'll yield my time to you. Senator Pirsch, would you like to say something? You get five minutes. You really want to hear a bedtime story? Okay. Really? I can't find any. It's all science fiction from now on. I mean, it's horror. You wouldn't want to get into it. It's not the type that you'd read before you go to bed. I mean, you know, it isn't to lull you to sleep, it's more sci-fi. It's like you wouldn't want your children to read it or watch on TV so I think maybe I better not horrify you too much because you said it had been a long time since you've heard a bedtime story. And so this probably wouldn't be that... it might be the wrong thing to read before you go to bed and it's getting late. But I could talk, I guess. I like to talk. I don't know what to talk about, though, except it's been great, too. I do have... it's just really been great. I've enjoyed it all. We've had really a lot of bonding here. I see people bonding together in little groups. I like bonding, think it's great. I think it's a great idea. I can't think of a nicer time we've all had together except sine die and that's when the good ol' boys get together and put their arms around each other and tell jokes about each other and women laugh on cue and I think that's always a lot of fun, too. We have another one at the end of the... well, we probably won't have it anymore because one of the sponsors died, and that was a nice bonding time, too, that we used to have. I can't think of anything. Can you, Senator Pirsch, think of a nice time that we've had together, all of us? I guess we had a good time this noon at Senator Labedz's farewell dinner that Senator LaVon Crosby so graciously hosted. It was a great
