dinner. We all had breast of chicken on rice and it was just so good, and I even had the cake for dessert. And I've had a great time in my four years down here. I really had a great time. I met Senator Chambers who I always wanted to meet and all my constituents come down here and want to meet him, and they get kind of irritated because I don't introduce them to him. But he always talks on the telephone when I'm talking so I never let them meet him. And I met Howard Lamb and I thought, you know, gee, he is leaving now this year and it's going to be so sad. But then new people come and new people go, and how many more minutes do I have, Mr. Speaker? He's not listening either.

SPEAKER BAACK: Too many, two and a half.

SENATOR ROBAK: Two and a half minutes, oh, okay. Well, it was 9:41 now and ten, what is the bedtime here? We have a bedtime. We have a curfew. Do we have a curfew? Children, do you know where your mothers are at? Mothers, do you know where your children are at? This is kind of nice here. We have lovely Pages and Kitty is so nice to all of us and reporters are a bunch of jerks, but then that's to be expected. Cameramen are smiling, usually bored, sleeping, and Sergeant at Arms watch us and make us sit down and it's really been nice here. I don't know that I'd want to do it for the rest of my life, and I don't know why we do it. I really don't. Senator Landis, can you answer a question for me, please?

SPEAKER BAACK: Senator Landis.

SENATOR LANDIS: I'll try.

SENATOR ROBAK: Senator Landis, do you enjoy it here?

SENATOR LANDIS: Not always.

SENATOR ROBAK: But generally, as a rule, excluding tonight?

SENATOR LANDIS: As a rule, I do.

SENATOR ROBAK: When you first came down here, did people come up to you and say, was it everything that you expected it to be? That's what irritated me so much. They would ask me if it was everything I ever expected and I always wondered if they ask men senators that.
