LB 606 restructures Nebraska's correctional and parole systems by eliminating the Division of Parole Supervision and transferring its duties to the Nebraska Department of Correctional Services (NDCS). This includes overseeing parolees, conducting risk assessments, and setting parole conditions. The bill also addresses correctional system overcrowding by expanding community-based correctional programs and work-release opportunities to reduce incarceration rates.

LB606 allows DCS to contract with private providers to establish community work release and reentry centers, offering employment assistance, vocational training, and mental health support. It also requires collaboration between DCS, the Office of Probation Administration, local facilities, and law enforcement to improve parolee oversight. Additionally, the bill requires annual reporting on reentry program performance and implements new data tracking to monitor parole outcomes and recidivism rates.

There is no fiscal impact at this time, and any future impact would be minimal and absorbed by the agencies.
